SECRETARY'S REPORT.

At the end of another year of labor and of its rewards, it devolves upon me to call your attention to what has been done, and to point out as I may be able to do so, the condition and the needs of our worthy cause at this time.

The Board of Directors has met regularly each month except in December, when the usual meeting was omitted on account of a special meeting having been held so near to the time at which it would have been called. There have been two special meetings, one in October, called to consider the interests of the evening school, and the other just previous to Thanksgiving, to consider the matter of providing a Thanksgiving Supper for the members of the school.

FINANCES.

Financially we can report the Fraternity in better condition than for some time. The following is the Treasurer's Report.

It has been audited by a committee for the purpose, and found correct.

We have a balance in the treasury, it will be observed, of $237.18, against $28.04 last year. But this is owing to the fact that there have been no extraordinary expenditures and two entertainments within the time, where last year there was but one corresponding thereto.

It will be seen that our funds have been mainly raised by the two entertainments in City Hall, $752 having come from that source. We would make especial mention, however, of the kindness of the Rossini Club, who broke a stringent rule of theirs in giving one of their classical concerts in our aid, thereby netting to our treasury $95.00. Nor could we overlook the valuable assistance rendered by the St. Nicholas Circle, composed of four young children of interested members of the Fraternity, for they, by their own exertions, raised $140.00, which they paid over to our Treasurer.

LIBRARY.

The Library is in good condition. It now numbers 717 books, while there are many volumes which have not yet been catalogued and placed upon the shelves. We have received valuable donations to this department from the Misses Ware, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Senter, Dr. J. T. Gilman, W. J. Thom, Esq., Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson, C. E. Jose, Esq., and the family of the late George Bartol, Esq. Under the efficient care of the committee having it in special charge, of which Mrs. S. E. Bragdon is Chairman, the books have been well arranged, neatly covered, and made a very attractive and creditable feature of our apartments.

READING ROOM.

This is in fair condition, being quite well supplied with magazines and other periodicals, but is not large enough for our purpose.

AMUSEMENT ROOM.

The Amusement room became during the year rather poorly supplied with games. An effort was made by the Committee on Rooms to refit it, and with partial success. The state of our finances did not warrant large expenditure in this direction, and as donations have been small, we are still in want of aid in this department. It is to be hoped that so important a branch of our efforts will not be suffered to decline.

THE SCHOOL.

This department has come into even greater prominence, favor and usefulness than ever before. Under the charge of that most earnest laborer in its behalf, and for that matter, in behalf of all the interests of our Institution, our late Secretary, Mr. Henry F. Coolidge, it has prospered unusually, and yielded a fruit worthy our hopes and exceeding our anticipations. To him I am indebted for a very full and excellent report, which is here presented almost entire:

The number of persons who have availed themselves of instruction the past year, is one hundred and fifty-four. The preceeding year it was one hundred and fourteen, showing a gain in favor of the past year of forty.

The sessions of the school, as usual, were suspended during the months of June, July, August and September.

October 2d, the fall and winter term began, since which time we have had one hundred and ten scholars, a number greater by thirty-four than for the corresponding time of 1873.

The scholars are of both sexes, their ages ranging from fifteen to thirty, and they consist almost exclusively of those unable to attend day schools, and who would in all probability, have failed to find other sources of instruction equal to or at all approaching those furnished here.

Your committee have been obliged to fix upon fifteen years as the minimum age of admission, for no other reason than want of room to accommodate the great numbers that would otherwise apply. A large number of applicants under that age have been refused admission.

The yearly fee of one dollar has been paid by each scholar with a very few exceptions.

The corps of teachers numbers fifteen, nine ladies and six gentlemen and they have given their services gratuitously.

On Monday evenings are two classes in Penmanship, one of girls and young women, the other of boys and young men, taught respectively by Mr. S. C. S. Higgins and Mr. George H. Field.

The records of these classes show during the year eighty-four pupils who occupy and fill separate rooms and show all degrees of skill in the art of Writing, from that of the laborious beginner to that of the adept.

On Tuesday evenings are three Arithmetic classes, in as many different apartments, aggregating, during the year, fifty-five members, ranging in their studies from Addition to Compound Interest, and presided over by Miss M. T. Hersey, Miss Annie Farmer, and Miss Lizzie Day, assisted by Miss Smith and Miss Clark.

On Wednesday evenings are two Reading classes, one of thirty in Hillard's Sixth Reader taught by Miss Rosa Foster, and one of nine pupils in the Primer, taught by Miss J. D. Proctor.

On Thursday evenings are a class of six young men in Mechanical Drawing, under the charge of Messrs. A. Dennett and Alonzo Millett, both practical draughtsmen, and two Book Keeping classes of thirty-eight scholars, under the instruction of Mr. H. F. Coolidge.

Two more Reading classes, taught by Miss Marcia Bradbury and Miss Hannah Talbot, consisting of twenty pupils in Hillard's Fourth Reader are held Friday evenings. Also on Friday evening a class in Grammar of twenty-three pupils, taught by Miss Woodbury.

On Saturday evenings Mr. C. F. Kimball has a class of three in Latin, and Miss E. Hale a class of four in Drawing.

The pupils are at no expense for books except in the Drawing, Writing and Book Keeping classes.

The attendance has averaged much better than in any previous year, and, taking into consideration the circumstances of the scholars, indicates a high appreciation of the opportunities offered and demonstrates the good work done by this department of the Fraternity.

It may also be mentioned in this connection that the pupils have formed a Literary Association which promises very well indeed.

The number of visitors (including pupils) to the rooms during the year has been 9448, against 8397 last year.

The Committee on Entertainments report two Grand Entertainments in City Hall, the financial results of which have already been referred to. Besides these, there have been two or three impromptu but very satisfactory entertainments for the pupils, in the hall over the rooms.

A Thanksgiving Supper was furnished the pupils under the auspices of the teachers. The latter worked most zealously and met with a most flattering success.

Our Janitor, Mr. Joseph C. Woodill, has proved to be the right man in the right place. He has been of very great use to us in all departments under his charge.

For the future, it is evident that we need increased accommodations. We ought to have more class rooms, a larger amusement room, and especially a larger reading room. To obtain all these we must have more money; a little effort will secure it. It is only necessary that a thousand persons give a dollar each—thereby becoming members of the institution for a year—to ensure the complete success of our labors this year, and a degree of usefulness we have not yet attained. The improvement remarked by all, in the tone and bearing of the pupils who have been under our charge, is itself a guaranty that we are working directly to the elevation of man. We are beginning at the right end: not attempting to reform men and women already depraved, but to prevent their degradation, by giving them right views of life, cultivated companionship, and a pure and wholesome surrounding sphere and influence.

Respectfully submitted,

LEONARD G. JORDAN, Secretary.
